Dick Randall, of Ovid, who is a little shaky in his mentality, took a train for Owosso in Saginaw, Tuesday, and being troubled with rheumatism took an electric battery from his luggage and taking off his shoe started to inject a little lightning into his afflicted foot. A passenger next him believing that the man was crazy and had an infernal machine, spread a report to that effect and the effect was amazing, the car being cleared in short order. Conductor Harris, of this city, and the brakeman removed the machine of terror with sticks and telegraphed to this city for an officer. Nightwatchman Cady put Dick in the lockup and the battery in a safe place until Wednesday morning when the prisoner explained what it was and was allowed to proceed on his mission, as he claims, of organizing a circus. A school of instruction in electric apparatus and batteries will probably be organized to protect our policemen when arresting such dangerous (?) characters and disposing of their terrible (?) de-
